A Word of Warning.
Several years ago this section of the State was canvassed by a lot of agents who sold steel ranges at big prices. They were pretty fair stoves but cost fifteen to twenty-five dollars more than the same or better ranges would cost if bought from our local dealers. We learn that another invasion is contemplated and that innocent looking receipts for ranges left on trial turn out to be promissory notes, with all exemptions which the law allows, waived. Our people should be very careful in signing any paper presented by a stranger, as it generally means much more than appears on its face.

Our local dealers can and will sell anything in their various lines at less prices than can traveling agents with big expenses for horses, vehicles, drivers, etc.—Winchester Democrat.

A man in a little village in Kansas was the father of two sons, and a widow of the same village was the mother of two daughters. The father soon married the widow's oldest daughter, his oldest son married the widow and the youngest son married the widow's youngest daughter. If you can figure out their kin the bake shop is yours.—Ex.

"Be a Methodist, Then."
In a quite little village not far from town lives a Baptist preacher and his family. The preacher is blessed with one son, a lad of four years, who has inherited all the traditional baptism by immersion principles, and who by close attention given to the ceremony as performed by his fond parent, is able to repeat it word for word. A few days ago he filled a tub with water in the back kitchen, and caught the kittens, proceeded to inculcate them into one of the Baptist churches. At the end of the ceremony each of the kittens took its immersion with calm forbearance, but when the mother was poised on her back and the "dip" commenced, there was a scramble, and two long red lines from the cat's claws were left along the little fellow's hand. Realizing only the importance of his work, he soon had the mother cat again poised over the tub of water, and, after repeating the ceremony for a second time, the plunge was started but the result was more disastrous than the former effort. The scratching, biting and clawing was too much for the boy, and as he disgustedly threw the cat from him he exclaimed: "Darn it, then, be a Methodist if you want to."—Ex.

A Funny Gift.
Among the presents lately showered upon a rural bride was one that was the gift of an old lady in the neighborhood, with whom both bride and groom were prime favorites.

Some years ago the old lady accumulated a supply of cardboard mottoes, which she worked and had framed as occasion arose.

In cheerful reds and blues, suspended by a cord of the same colors, over the table on which the other presents were grouped, hung the motto: "Fight on, Fight ever."—Detroit Free Press.

G. W. DAUGHETEE.

GEO. W. Daughetee was born June 7, 1827, in Clark county, Ky., and died near Valley View, Tex., Nov. 30, 1898. He was converted and joined the M. E. Church at Jackson's Chapel at about the age of thirteen. He lived from that time until his death a consistent exemplary Christian life. Bro. Daughetee was a man of positive convictions, though a man of few words, and when convinced of the right he moved along that line quietly, but firmly, with all his energies, fearing nothing, having no thought of being thwarted in his purpose. This characteristic was brought out very prominently in his life during the war, and after, when it took firmness and courage to stand to one's convictions.

In the separation of 1844 he espoused the Southern cause, and during the war the lines were drawn so sharply in his community, and the opposite side being in the majority, his church went down—so I have been informed—until all the members but himself and family became discouraged and quit; but he, true to his convictions and his church, held on in the face of seeming defeat through the years, until, after awhile, God honored his faith and integrity, the church began to gather strength and grow, and now they have a good, strong church and a nice building in which to worship—a monument to his unswerving faith and love for the cause he held so dear. A good man has been taken from us, one who served his generation by the will of God. He lived in his home as he lived before the world—in that quiet way which did not fail to make its impress upon his family and others. He did not order and command in the control of his children, but depended upon his righteous counsel and Godly example to steer them in the proper course, and it did not fail, for they are an honor to him. All of them are good, religious citizens.

Bro. Daughetee was married to Miss Nancy Spry on May 3, 1850. They had born unto them seven children. His wife and two of his children preceded him to the glory world. The five who remain are following after. Just a few weeks before his death his last son was happily converted, on which occasion he said to me with great joy: "I am satisfied now; the last one of my children is saved. I am ready to go; yea, I want to go." He was taken sick in a few days and gradually, without suffering a great deal, closed what I have often heard him call it, "his long and weary life." Bro. Daughetee had as rich Christian experience as anyone with whom I ever associated. He moved to Texas in November, 1884, and settled near Valley View, Cooke county, where he lived until his death. May the God of all grace keep his children and loved ones, and at last bring them safe to the mansion above. W. E. JORDAN.

The above sketch of G. W. Daughetee is taken from the Central Methodist, and through the solicitation of friends in this community, where he resided the principal part of his life we republish it.

George Adams, of Paris, had a foot cut off while trying to board a train on the L. & N. He was drunk and missed his hold. Blood poison ensued and he died.

WOMAN

As She is Seen by a Tender Hearted Analyst.

Woman!

She can laugh with her lips, make a man think she is the merriest creature in the world, while her eyes are full of unshed tears and her heart is beating as if it would burst. She can forgive a great sin like an angel and nag a man about a petty vice like a fury.

She can fix up old frocks and wear them with a cheerful heart that she may help somebody, and she can spend the first money she really feels she can use for herself in going to a matinee or on candy when she needs a new pair of shoes. She can quiet a baby with one or two reassuring pats, when a man might almost knock the life out of it, give it a whole bottle of soothing syrup, and it would still be open eyed and aggressive. She can cry out her troubles on a man's shoulder, and feel a relief that is only possible from masculine help, and 10 minutes later she can laugh in that man's face and wonder what men were made for.

What can't she do? She will never be able to resist the man or baby who has got the love of her heart.—Ex.

At a sale in Shelby county, corn brought $2 per barrel.

George Carter, an aged Clinton county, (Ind.) farmer created a stir in the streets at Kokomo the other day, with all his pockets bulging out with gold pieces and rolls of greenbacks, having on his person $150,000, all of which he "dug up out of the ground," raising corn, hogs and cattle on his farm. He was surrounded by covetous eyes all day, but he allowed no one to get close to him. He tantalized the crowd by holding out a peck of gold in a basket, twirling a revolver in the other. Toward evening he put the cash in the bank and went home, having shown the people what a "John Farmer" could do when he wanted to "show off."

Mrs. Will Money, of Bloomfield, is said to have a cow three-fourths Jersey, seven years old, which gives five gallons of milk a day and one gallon of her cream makes six pounds of butter.—Danville Advocate.

The Court of Appeals will adjourn Saturday for a vacation of two weeks. The Court has during its present session disposed of more cases than any previous term, many of them being highly important.

Attorney General Monett, of Ohio, says no special legislation is needed to destroy the trusts. He has instituted quo warranto proceeding against the Standard Oil Company—a writ to show cause “why its life should not be taken from it by revoking its charter, appointing trustees and winding up its business.” He says that every State may abolish a corporation which may be proved guilty of using its powers “to carry out any contract, policy or scheme that is against the public policy of the State or Nation.”—Ex.

Every editor has received them. The postmaster sends them to the editor. The postmaster is not to blame. For instance, there was a man by the name of —well, say Tim Short, who sent us three notices to stop his paper, he didn’t want his paper any longer. We wondered what was the matter. Examining the subscription book we found that Tim was short $10. He never had paid a cent, and yet he had stopped his paper as a matter of economy—to us. He didn’t want us to lose any by him. A few days afterwards Short was at church and his melodious voice rang out loud and clear in that old soul stirring song, “Jesus Paid it All.” We have been mistaken but his earnestness impressed us. So the next day we sent him a receipt in full begging his pardon for not knowing that he had made an assignment of his liabilities to the Lord.—Full on Guard.

A Difficult Problem.

Here is a problem for the school boys and girls: A lady goes into a grocery store and buys a quarter of a pound of twelve-cent coffee and asks the grocer to deliver it. It takes a dollar-a-day clerk ten minutes to package and deliver it in a two-dollar-and-a-half-per-thousand sack, and the coffee costs 10 cents per pound. How much profit, if any, does the grocer make? The above actually occurred in one of our grocery establishments this week.—Ex.

Mixed Correspondence.

One of our exchanges tells about an editor who got his answers to correspondents mixed. One writer had asked him a question as to the best way of conducting the affairs of twins during the teething period. The other wanted to know how grasshoppers could be induced to let up on their depredations in his orchard.

The editor answered the questions but inadvertently mixed the initials.

The happy father of the twins was told to “cover them carefully with straw and set fire to them, and the little pests, after jumping about in the flames for a few minutes, will speedily be steel-ed.”

This was a tragic part of the mistake. The comedy came in when the man plagued with grasshoppers found himself gravely directed to “Give a little castor oil and rub their gums with bone-rings.”

It took a lot of explaining to square that editor with two indignant subscribers.

Shooting at Levee.

Price Maupin, aged about 26 and a son of James Maupin, was shot and probably fatally wounded Monday evening by Thos. J. Douglas in front of the latter's store at Levee, in this county.

The ball was a 38 calibre and passed through the liver.

Douglas came in and surrendered to the Sheriff. The case was continued until Saturday to await the result of Maupin's injury, and Douglas was released on a $500 bond. Douglas claims self defense. We have failed to secure details of the shooting, as those interested refuse to talk, but we are told that the shooting was the outgrowth of previous trouble between the families.

—Mt. Sterling Gazette.

Since the publication of the above Maupin has died.

Mr. Douglas has numerous relatives and friends in this county who will regret to learn of the killing above mentioned.

The report here has it that Douglas was justifiable and will doubtless come clear on the examining trial to-day.

The extensive use of it for whooping cough has shown that it robs that disease of all dangerous consequences. It is especially prized by mothers for their children, as it never fails to effect a speedy cure, and because they have found that there is not the least danger in giving it, even to babies, as it contains nothing injurious. Machinery is taking off man's hands the work that requires the least amount of brains; that can best be performed by an automaton. It is not making man's labor less severe, rather the contrary; it is continually adding to his responsibilities, to the necessity of using his head with his hands. In itself his work is often harder than it was; yet inasmuch as it requires a higher application, it gives man such a sense of his own powers that he would never go back to the old, easier methods. —Exchange.

A Novel Law Suit.

A New York grocer has brought suit against a dental company, and the action is one of the most novel ever heard of but not from the plaintiff's standpoint. He went to have a tooth extracted and the wrong molar was pulled; but this was not the worst of the operation. One of the nerves of the eye was so disarranged that the optic keeps up a constant twitching in a manner commonly known as a wink. This has caused the grocer much embarrassment. On Coincidences of Jefferson Davis and Abraham Lincoln.

They were both born in Kentucky, Davis in 1808 and Lincoln in 1809. Both removed from their native state in childhood. In the Black Hawk war, 1832, Lincoln was captain of volunteers and Davis lieutenant of the regulars. Both began their political careers at the same period, 1844, Davis being then a presidential elector of Peck, and Lincoln a presidential elector for Henry Clay. Both were elected to Congress, and in the same year and within a few days of each other were called upon to preside over their respective governments. Davis as President of the Confederate States, February 8, 1861, and Lincoln as President of the United States, March 4, 1861.

Plaint of A Millionaire.

What is the smallest income on which a man may live in New York? was the question I asked to-day of a noted banker, whose income cannot be less than $100,000,000 a year. "Well," he replied, "my household expenses alone amount to $25,000 a year, and I do not see how I possibly could live on less than that." Then a reminiscent smile began to cross his countenance, and heaving a little-sigh, he said: "But the happiest time of my life was when my wife and I and two children lived here on $2,500 a year. After all, happiness doesn't depend on the amount of a man's income."

"I was quite intimate with William H. Vanderbilt when he was considered the richest man in the country. I met him one day in Fifth avenue and said to him that he ought to be the happiest man in the world. 'I am not' the great millionaire replied. 'My health is shattered and all the money I possess cannot restore it. I cannot even drive one of my fine horses. It is painful for me to sit down. My only possible exercise is for me to walk down the avenue. I receive threatening letters daily, and my nerves are so unstrung that I am constantly afraid that some assassin will waylay me. I am overrun with people who want to get money. I am the most wretched man in New York, and I tell you that after a person has accumulated enough to secure him against poverty and gratify his reasonable wants, every dollar in addition is a burden and weighs him down."

—Philadelphia Ledger.

a number of occasions he has been chastised by the escorts of ladies who were under the impression that the unhappy grocer was trying to flirt. He has been called all sorts of names, and now he never goes on the street or enters a street car without wearing dark glasses. He thinks he has been damaged to the extent of $10,000.—Ex.

The Stingy Man.

He lived on thirteen cents a day—Ten cents for milk and crackers, One cent for dissipation gay,

And two cents for tobacco.

And if he wished an extra dish, He'd take his pole and catch a fish.

And if his stomach raised a war 'Gainst his pernicious habit, He'd go and kill a woodchuck, Or assassinate a rabbit.

And thus he'd live in sweet content

On food that never cost a cent.

And that he might lay in the bank The proceeds of his labor, He'd call round at meals, the crank To dine upon his neighbor.

And then he'd eat enough to last Until another day had passed.

He bought no pantaloons nor vest,

No rich, expensive jacket;

He had one suit—his pa's bequest He said would stand the racket. He patched it thirty years, 'tis true,

And then declared 'twas good as new.

He owned but one suit to his back, And minus cuffs and collars

He died and left his nephew Jack Nine hundred thousand dollars! And Jack ran this fortune through And it only took a year or two.
